SHELTAM AVIATION

As part of the multi-faceted Sheltam Group, the company has become a trend-setter for the industry, offering a comprehensive range of services matched unrivalled quality and professionalism. Sheltam's aviation division was launched in 2002, following the acquisition of the National Airways Corporation (NAC) facilities at the Port Elizabeth Airport. The premises were entirely revamped to the impressive standard and corporate image of the Sheltam Group and the doors officially opened in June 2002. The aviation arm was expanded with the subsequent acquisition of the NAC operation at Virginia Airport in Durban in July 2005. The company has since become widely regarded as one of the true industry leaders, with its extensive portfolio encompassing country-wide air charters to suit all types of private and business needs. This is complemented by aircraft maintenance, long-term contracts, pilot training and conversions, as well as Avgas and Jet A-1 fuel sales. Most of our pilots contracted on a freelance basis are highly experienced and commercially licenced and undergo regular training. Several are also specialists in pilot training and type conversions.

SKY MESSAGING

Sky Messaging (Pty) Ltd is an aerial advertising operator that recently opened its third base at Virginia Airport, together with Rand Airport and Fisantekraal in Cape Town. Sky Messaging implements a total of four PA-18 Super Cubs of which three have been converted to 180hp variants. The in house developed 'Flight and Business Management System' governs various aspects of the operation including client management, live tracking, (including altitude and cockpit voice recording), fuel records, aircraft components, flight and duty and so on. This together with the patented flying methodology allows Sky Messaging to take-off with the banner already attached making aerial advertising a safe and viable form of taking a client's brand, message or call to action overhead of its target market sitting in sustainable peak hour traffic - directly next to Virginia Airport.
